Why am I learning this?

I am learning this so that I know more about what happens in places where French is spoken. I am also learning how to say what I do in my free time and how to ask questions in French. I will practise using verbs in the present, past and future so that I can describe my leisure activities in more detail and with more complexity.

Why am I learning this?

I am learning this topic so that I can talk more about myself, what makes up my personal identity and my own weekend routines. Also, I am learning how to discuss the relationships I have with others, as well as how to describe how they look and the events we celebrate together. I am continuing to work with verbs in the present, past and future plus revisiting the position and spelling of adjectives.

Previous learning

12. Recognising more negatives

What's next?

Talking about lifestyle and wellbeing

Why am I learning this?

I am revisiting the topic of school, and I am revising school subjects, opinions and reasons. However, I am exploring new elements such as school rules and talking about making progress at school. I am deepening my understanding of the past tense and am learning how to use the imperfect tense to describe what school used to be like. I am also comparing UK schools with schools in French speaking countries.
